The goal of raising our children is to help them build healthy relationships with God, others, and themselves. As a family discuss the following questions.

- What are some ways you can build healthy relationships with God?
- Others,
- Yourself?

Parents:

- What do you want your children to be like when they leave home?
- What character traits do you want to see in the life of your children?
- What behaviors, values, and beliefs do you want to pass on to them?

MODELING:

“Living out the life we want our children to have in front of them - demonstrating those healthy relationships with God, others, and ourselves.”

- How does 1 Timothy 4 relate to this definition?
- How can we be an influence on our children to “be what we want them to be?”
